

PLINT

The Plint barstool is flexible seating in two senses. The softshaped padded seat allows you to sit in two different ways. Plint is available in two heights, with the bench version being lower and broader, inviting two people to sit together either back to back or side by side. Sitting on this wide stool at a 900 mm high table is a different experience and a very comfortable one. Plint bench is also available with a rocking frame. Plint has been included in the Stockholm National Museum's modern design collection.
