There are stories of ideas and of people behind a product, that make it unique.

Sideboard Leon was born in 2002 from the vision of an installation inspired by ploughed fields, created for the Biennale in Venice back in 2001 by the artist Leon Tarasewicz, whose name was taken as a tribute.

The idea of reproducing this chromatic game in a piece of furniture marks the genesis of the project: from a simple functional storage unit to an absolute protagonist capable of arousing emotions. Horm's ability to create and the skilful hands of its craftsmen mould its shape.

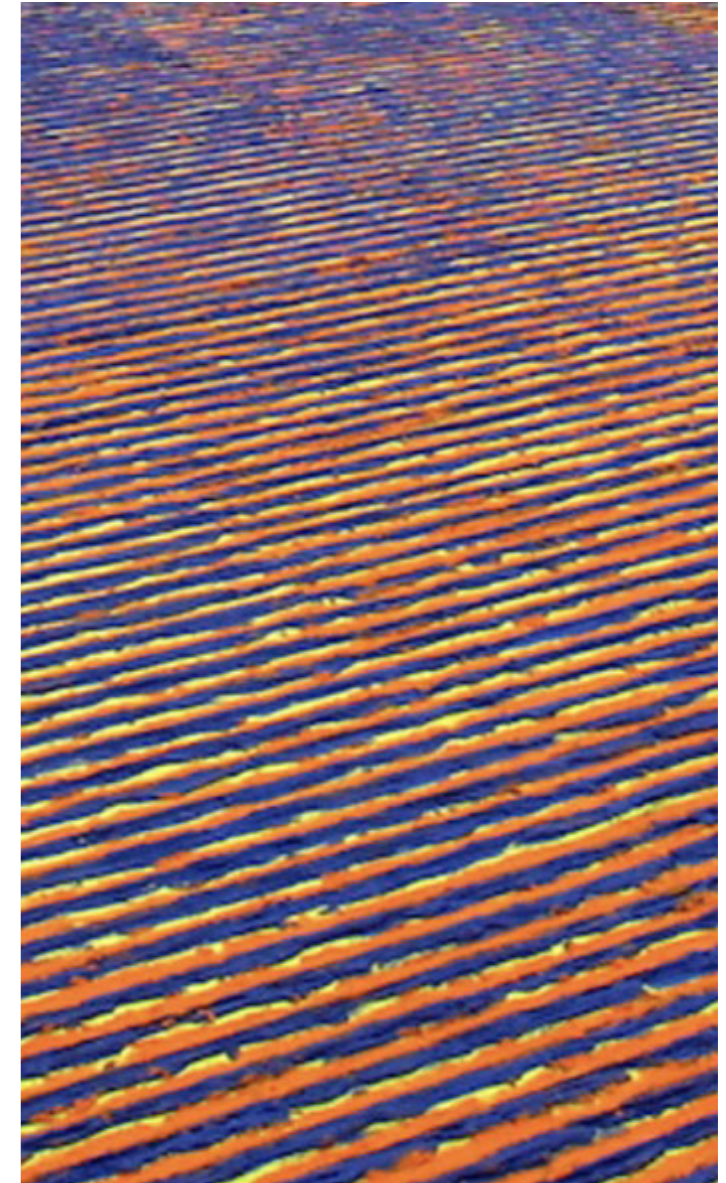

The result is an absolute best seller admired and imitated all over the world, whose strength lies both in the power of its creative path and in its ability to interact with those who look at it, admire it, own it and use it every day.

In 2018 the art director Renato Zamberlan renews the project with two new versions: Leon Decor and Full Color. The introduction of lacquered colours combined with the exasperation of craftsmanship have given new impetus and contemporaneity to this unit.

"I often notice incredible colour patterns in nature. [...]
 Sometimes it is possible to achieve it through breaking, or transforming the naturalism of the observed phenomenon."
